

“Reassessing the EU Monetary and Fiscal Framework” Cambridge University, October 8 - 9, 2015

“A Dynamic Economic and Monetary Union” (ADEMU)¹:

In response to the European debt crisis and associated deep recession, a number of important steps have been taken towards redesigning the institutional architecture of EMU, based on the roadmap outlined in the Van Rompuy Report (2012, also known as the “Four Presidents’ Report”), which has been recently further developed in the “Five Presidents’ Report” (June 2015). The Greek crisis -- with the NO vote of July 5 -- has shown the urgency of strengthening the EMU institutional framework and, at the same time, the challenge of establishing credible, sustainable and inclusive policies and institutions in a heterogeneous union. The EMU institutional innovations -- and especially the ‘fiscal compact’, the ESM, the SSM and the SRM -- need strong theoretical foundations to address these challenges. The developments in dynamic macroeconomic theory of the past three decades provide models and tools that can help to reassess and strengthen the EMU framework, but the novelty of the experiment will also require new theories to be developed. This is the aim of the ADEMU research project: to develop new theory and formulate implementable policy proposals for a heterogeneous fiscal and monetary union. The ADEMU takes off Conference will be a forum to present and debate the research agenda, having the Euro Area (and EU) challenges in the background.

19.30 Dinner

² The panel will focus on the research needs that the question “What type of Fiscal Union?” raises, as well as (time permitting) the research needs that related questions of the “Five Presidents’ Report” (June 2015) raise:

- How can we ensure sound fiscal and economic positions in all euro area Member States?
- Is the current governance framework – if fully implemented – sufficient to make the euro area shock-resilient and prosperous in the long run?
- What instruments are needed in situations in which national policies continue – despite surveillance under the governance framework – to go harmfully astray?
- How could private risk-sharing through financial markets in the euro area be enhanced to ensure a better absorption of asymmetric shocks?
- Is a further risk-sharing in the fiscal realm desirable? What would be the preconditions?

Or others that may also be part of the ADEMU agenda, such as:

- Should the Euro Area have an Unemployment Insurance Mechanism? If so, how it should be implemented?
- etc.

General Discussion

³ The panel will focus on the research needs that “Strengthening the EMU in the (one hopes) aftermath of the Greek crisis” raises, as well as (time permitting) the research needs that related questions of the “Five Presidents’ Report” (June 2015) raise:

- How could a better implementation and enforcement of the economic and fiscal governance framework be ensured?
- Has the fiscal-financial nexus been sufficiently dealt with in order to prevent the repetition of negative feedback loops between banks and sovereign debt?
- To what extent can the framework of EMU mainly rely on strong rules and to what extent are strong common institutions also required?
- Under which conditions and in which form could a stronger common governance over structural reforms be envisaged? How could it foster real convergence?
- How can accountability and legitimacy be best achieved in a multilevel setup such as EMU?

Or others that may also be part of the ADEMU agenda, such as:

- How can policies and institutions promote trust and solidarity in a heterogeneous EMU?
- etc.
